3. Life Membership.—The payment of $50.00 at one time shall exempt the member so paying from the payment of annual dues.

4. Arrears.—Members who are in arrears for two years may be dropped from the roll, if after written notice they fail to pay the same within thirty days. A member who has been dropped can only be reinstated by the majority vote of the Board of Managers upon payment of all arrears and of the dues which would have accrued had she remained continuously a member.

Three of these shall be chosen by ballot at one annual meeting and two at the next, beginning with the year 1900. These shall be nominated from the floor, and not by a nominating committee. As it is desirable, especially in the instance of absent members voting by proxy, that the nominations for Officers and Patroonesses should be known in advance of the meeting at which the election is held, the nominations shall be made at the regular Business Meeting next preceding the Annual Meeting, and a list of the persons nominated, giving under the designation of the officer or position to be filled, the names of all persons nominated to said position in the order of their nominations, shall be sent by the Secretary to each member of the Society in advance of the Annual Meeting. Election shall be in the order of seniority.

3. Powers and Duties.—The Board of Managers shall have general control and management of the affairs and property of the Society. Seven members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The Board shall have power to approve all applications for membership; to accept resignations; to hear charges against members; to establish standing committees; to fill vacancies in office or in its own membership, until the next meeting of the Society; to require a member to substantiate her claims to membership upon proofs of defects or irregularities in her application papers, or to terminate membership in the event of failure so to do; to make by-laws, not inconsistent with this constitution, for its own government and conduct; and in general to adopt any measures for the prosperity of the Society, subject, however, to approval of Society at a called meeting.

REGISTER OF ANCESTORS

REGISTER OF ANCESTORS

The Society of the Daughters of Holland Dames is unique in that it accepts as members only women whose Ancestors were born in Holland and came to America before 1700. This limitation prevents its referring to the records of many illustrious men who served loyally under the Dutch Crown in this country.

The men sent out by the "Dutch West India Company" to the new Colony had offices awaiting them, while those who followed in their wake waited years to have their abilities recognized—indeed it was more often the second generation that produced the most notable men.

To give its first "Record Book" a character in keeping with that of the Society, the Editors have used the original Dutch spelling of names of persons and places as far as possible, departing from it only when the orthography itself varied with the different periods of ancestral service.

Of the provinces mentioned in the Register of Ancestors the following, enumerating them from north to south, are in Nederland, or what we call Holland: Groningen, Friesland, Drenthe, Overijssel; North Holland, containing the cities of Amsterdam and Haarlem; South Holland, containing Leyden and Rotterdam, Utrecht, Gelderland, Zeeland, North Brabant, Limburg; and the following are in what is now Belgium, but was at one time a part of Holland: West Flanders, East Flanders.

Nieuw Nederland comprised the territory between the Connecticut River on the east and the South River (Delaware) on the south, and northward extended as far as the present city of Albany, which was an Indian Trading Post in 1614.

The Dutch West India Company Charter bears the date 1621. Fort Orange was built in 1623.

Beverwyck and Rensselaerswyck were so called from their early settlement in 1637 until 1664, when the English took possession and named the united settlements New Albany. The city received its charter in 1686. When the Dutch recaptured Nieuw Nederland, they renamed New York "Nieuw Orange," and the Fort, "Willem Hendrick." They also renamed New Albany "Willemstadt," and gave the name of "Swaanenburg" to Kingston.

Esopus bore its Indian name until Governor Stuyvesant called it "Wildwyck" in 1661. When the English began their rule, all names were Anglicised and this hamlet assumed the name of Kingston, which it bears at the present time.

On Long Island, Breuckelen was the original name of Brooklyn (under the English rule, Brookland), Boswyck of East Brooklyn, Waelboght (Wallabout) of the district on the East River, Midwout of Flatbush, Middleburg of Newtown, Vlissingen of Flushing, Amersfoort of Flatlands, 's Gravesande of Gravesend, and Heemstead of Hempstead.

The Colony on the Delaware was called Suydt Rivier.

A word as to the significance of some of the Dutch titles of offices mentioned throughout these records may be of interest.

A Schout was a Sheriff.

A Schout-Fiscal discharged the duties of Sheriff and Attorney General.

Burgemeesters and Schepens were city magistrates who succeeded the "Nine Men" on the incorporation of Nieuw Amsterdam.

Orphanmasters were officers appointed by the Burgemeesters and Schepens to guard the interests of orphans and minor children, and to administer their property.
